

Introducing Hachette Learning

Together we unlock every learner's unique potential

Hodder Education is changing to Hachette Learning, embracing the name of our parent company Hachette UK. With a rich history spanning nearly 200 years, Hachette UK is globally recognised as one of the world's largest publishers. This alignment strengthens our ability to support the diverse needs of our customers, in an ever-changing educational landscape.

While our name is changing, our mission stays the same: empowering you with skills and solutions to unlock potential in learners, and take learning to the next level. We'll still be offering the same products and services, and working with educators at all levels as a dedicated partner. While also delivering flexible and robust products and solutions for all ages across K-12 and beyond – designed to raise education standards worldwide.

Our values

- ▮ We ensure every learner is empowered, by recognising individual needs.
- ▮ We're collaborative, always on hand to help deliver learning with impact.
- ▮ We believe great education is priceless and should be accessible to everyone.

What we do

- ▮ We deliver high-quality print and digital teaching and learning resources plus offer further support with professional development books and workshops.
- ▮ We work closely with educators, academics, awarding bodies and partners to develop our products and services, ensuring they reflect diverse cultural and linguistic contexts globally.
- ▮ We assess the impact and effectiveness of our products by conducting in-school trials with our customers, ensuring our products meet the needs of teachers and learners across the world.
- ▮ We focus on providing digital solutions to drive transformation and innovation in the classroom and beyond.

What we offer

As a trusted EdTech provider, we know that no two students learn the same way. So instead of a one-size-fits-all approach, we provide schools with the teaching and learning resources you need to accelerate the learning experience.

Digital solutions

Our cutting-edge digital solutions are designed to turbo-charge your teaching, providing online platforms that reduce your workload, and dynamic tools that increase student engagement through personalised learning experiences.

In 2025, we're launching Hachette Learning Adaptive, a best-in-class adaptive learning solution that will deliver personalised learning experiences for students and valuable insights for teachers.

Assessment solutions

We're a leading provider of assessment solutions, with decades of experience in testing and learning. Our award-winning standardised and SEN-focused tests are designed in collaboration with expert authors, teachers and students.

Our simple reporting platform makes it easy for teachers and leaders to track progress accurately and provides reliable insights that help shape individual learning strategies.
